Sadayanodai Ilaingar Narpani Mandram (sinam)

Improving the lives of weaker sections of community through livelihood opportunities, healthcare, education, advocacy, and environmental programmes

About us

SINAM (Sadayanodai Ilaingar Narpani Mandram) is a registered non-profit, non-political, non-religious organization primarily working for the sustainable empowerment of marginalized communities in Tiruvanmalai district. Established in 1986 when casteism was at its peak, and had prevented people from disadvantaged communities to exercise their basic rights, SINAM's interventions had been to educate the communities - as we believe that education is the key to unlock the opportunities laid for them. Gradually, we extended our activities to address unemployment prevailing among youth, gender violence, and environmental crisis. Through skill development, and capacity building training, we try to establish a secured future for youth as well as women. Our family counselling centre acts as an additional support to help women going through gender violence, and have helped many women come out of depression and misery. To mitigate the environmental degradation, we plant thousands of saplings each year and encourage local community to participate in this initiative. Our programmes are structured in a way to enhance the lives of downtrodden, and emphasize equality for all irrespective of their caste, class, and gender.

Objectives

To uplift poor children and destitute, promote the welfare of differently abled people-under privileged.

Vision

Establishment of the harmonious nature loving society without poverty, illiteracy, ill health and injustice.
